A Printable Companion to the Six-Module Transformation System

HOW TO USE THIS WORKBOOK

This workbook contains the written exercises from all six modules of The Mindset Sauce. These are not reading exercises — they are writing exercises. The transformation happens in the writing.

Work through each module section after you have completed that module's lesson. Take your time. Write by hand when possible — handwriting activates a different neural pathway than typing and produces more honest, less performative answers.

The three Free Bonus Materials at the back are yours to use immediately — they are designed to deepen and extend the work of the course beyond the 30 days.

Do not rush this workbook. This is the soil work. Everything else grows from what you plant here.

The Soil Before the Seed

The Soil Audit · The Definite Chief Aim

Complete this section after reading Module One. These two exercises are the foundation of the entire course. Do not move to Module Two until both are complete and feel genuinely honest — not polished, not performed. Honest.

Ex
1.1

The Soil Audit — Three Questions

Napoleon Hill found that the conditions of the inner ground determine whether any seed can germinate. Before planting, you must see the soil clearly. Answer these three questions in the most unfiltered language available to you. The polished version is not useful here.

QUESTION 1

What is the thought you have most frequently about money, success, or your own potential? Write it exactly as it sounds in your own head — not the version you would say out loud to someone else. The real one.

Write the real inner statement — not the aspirational version:

QUESTION 2

In the last 90 days, how much of your daily mental diet has been devoted to content, conversations, or media that genuinely builds the belief that your goals are achievable? And how much has been devoted to content that plants no seed toward your Definite Chief Aim?

Builds belief in my goal:

Plants no seed / erodes:

QUESTION 3

If the subconscious mind acts on what it receives most often — as Hill proved across 500 interviews — what result would your current mental diet logically produce? Be brutally honest. This is the most important diagnosis in the entire course.

The result my current mental diet is logically producing:

THE SOIL AUDIT — WHAT I FOUND

In two or three sentences, what does your soil audit reveal about the current condition of your inner ground?

My honest assessment of the soil I am starting with:

Ex
1.2

The Definite Chief Aim — Your Written Contract

This is the most important written exercise in the entire course. Napoleon Hill was specific: the Definite Chief Aim must contain all six elements listed below to function as a true instruction to the subconscious. A goal without all six elements is a wish. With all six, it is a contract.

BEFORE YOU WRITE — HILL'S SIX REQUIREMENTS

- ☐ Specific and measurable — not 'financial freedom,' an exact outcome
- ☐ Written — not typed if possible, handwritten activates deeper commitment
- ☐ Includes a specific date — a deadline is an instruction, not a detail
- ☐ Includes what you will give in return — trade, not take
- ☐ Believed, not just wanted — the body must accept it as possible
- ☐ Reviewed daily — this document is read aloud every morning and evening

ELEMENT 1 — THE EXACT OUTCOME

Write your primary goal in present tense as already achieved. 'By [date], I have...' — specific, measurable, unambiguous. You would know immediately if you had arrived.

By _____, I have:

ELEMENT 2 — THE DATE

The specific date by which this outcome is your reality. Not approximate. The exact date.

The exact date of my arrival:

ELEMENT 3 — WHAT I AM GIVING IN RETURN

Hill was emphatic: the universe responds to trading, not taking. Name specifically what you are giving in exchange — time, comfort, security, ego, relationships that do not serve you, the option of retreat. Name the price you are paying.

In exchange for this outcome, I am giving:

ELEMENT 4 — MY DEFINITE PLAN — FIRST THREE ACTIONS

Hill did not require a complete plan — he required a definite one. Write the first three specific actions you are taking right now that belong to this goal. Not research. Not planning. Actions.

Action 1:

Action 2:

---

Action 3:

ELEMENT 5 — THE FEELING

This is the element most people skip — and the element Neville Goddard identified as the most important. Write a full paragraph describing what it feels like, in your daily life, to be the person for whom this outcome is simply the current state of affairs. Not the excitement of arrival. The ordinary, settled quality of having been here for a while.

What daily life feels like when this outcome is simply my current reality:

ELEMENT 6 — YOUR SIGNATURE

This is a contract. Sign it. Date it. The act of signing is itself an impression on the subconscious — the moment of commitment made physical.

Signature

Date Signed

---

From this date forward, this statement is read aloud every morning before any other activity and every evening in the final ten minutes before sleep.

2

The Assumption

The Assumption Audit · The SATS Scene Builder

Complete this section after reading Module Two. The Assumption Audit surfaces what is currently running beneath your conscious awareness. The SATS Scene Builder designs the specific imaginal scene you will use in your nightly practice. Most people fail at SATS because they improvise the scene in the moment. This exercise fixes that before you begin.

Ex
2.1

The Assumption Audit — Four Questions

Neville Goddard taught that the life you are currently living is the hardened form of assumptions you have been making — most of them unconsciously. These four questions surface those assumptions so you can see them clearly and begin replacing them deliberately.

QUESTION 1

What do you assume is true about people like you and money? Not what you hope — what you assume. The background belief that arises automatically when you think about significant financial success.

What I automatically assume about people like me and money:

QUESTION 2

What do you assume is typically available to someone with your specific background, education, family history, and starting point?

What I assume is available to someone with my background:

QUESTION 3

When you bring your Definite Chief Aim to mind right now and hold it for 10 seconds — what does the body produce? Describe the felt experience as precisely as possible. Is it the feeling of certainty or the feeling of hoping?

What my body actually feels when I hold my goal in mind:

QUESTION 4 — THE MOST IMPORTANT

What would you have to assume about yourself — specifically and concretely — that you do not currently assume, for your Definite Chief Aim to feel completely natural and unremarkable? This is the assumption you are installing.

The assumption I need to install for my goal to feel simply true:

Ex
2.2

The SATS Scene Builder

Before you perform your first SATS practice, design your scene here. Neville was specific: the scene must imply your desire is already fulfilled — not a scene of receiving, a scene of having. Build it here so you can enter it precisely each night.

STEP 1 — CHOOSE THE IMPLIED SCENE

Describe a specific moment — 30 seconds to 3 minutes — that could only exist if your Definite Chief Aim were already completely real. Not the moment you receive the news. A moment inside the life that already has it.

My SATS scene — the specific moment I will inhabit each night:

STEP 2 — ENTER FROM THE INSIDE

Now describe the same scene from the first person, present tense — as the occupant, not the observer. What do you see from your own eyes? What do you hear directed at you? What do you feel in your body?

|                                |                                    |
|--------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| What I see from inside: | What I hear directed at me: |
| <hr/>                          | <hr/>                              |

What I feel in my body — the specific physical sensation of this being simply true:

STEP 3 — THE FEELING-TONE

Neville's most important instruction: the feeling must be natural, not performed. Not the excitement of winning — the ordinary, unremarkable feeling of someone for whom this is simply Tuesday. Describe that feeling-tone in one sentence.

The quiet, settled feeling-tone of my scene in one sentence:

MY SATS COMMITMENT

I will use this exact scene for a minimum of 7 consecutive nights before changing it. Consistency is the mechanism. The subconscious responds to the pattern of a repeated impression, not to variety.

My commitment — signed

3

Burning Desire

The Six-Element Statement of Desire

Complete this section after reading Module Three. The Statement of Desire is the written instrument that Hill's autosuggestion practice operates through. It is read aloud every morning and every evening. This exercise builds it — all six elements — with enough depth and specificity to function as a genuine instruction to the subconscious.

Ex
3.1

The Six-Element Statement of Desire — Your Written Contract

This is different from the Definite Chief Aim in Module One. The Definite Chief Aim is your primary goal statement. The Statement of Desire is the full emotional, action-oriented declaration that is spoken aloud twice daily as your primary autosuggestion practice. It is longer, richer, and more emotionally detailed.

ELEMENT 1 — THE EXACT OUTCOME (PRESENT TENSE)

'I have...' — not 'I will have.' Present tense as already real. The specific, measurable outcome you are committed to.

I have:

ELEMENT 2 — WHAT I AM GIVING IN RETURN (PRESENT TENSE)

'I am giving...' — current action, not future intention. What are you actively trading for this outcome right now?

In exchange, I am giving:

ELEMENT 3 — THE EXACT DATE

By this exact date, this is my reality:

ELEMENT 4 — THE FIRST THREE ACTIONS (PRESENT TENSE)

What are you doing right now that belongs to this goal? Actions that already exist in the real world.

Right now, I am:

ELEMENT 5 — THE FEELING (FULL PARAGRAPH)

This is the element that separates an autosuggestion from a recitation. Write a full paragraph — in present tense, from the inside — describing what it feels like to be the person for whom this outcome is simply the current reality. The specific quality of daily life. Not the excitement of having arrived. The natural, settled tone of someone who has been living this for a while.

The feeling of my daily life as this person — written from inside it:

ELEMENT 6 — SIGNATURE AND DATE

Signed

Date

HOW TO USE YOUR STATEMENT OF DESIRE

Read this statement aloud every morning — immediately after the mirror declaration, before any other activity.

Read this statement aloud every evening — as part of the pre-SATS Desire Renewal practice.

Read it with emotion. Not performed excitement — the settled emotion of certainty. The voice of someone reporting current reality.

As the feeling deepens over 30 days, the statement will feel less like aspiration and more like description. That shift is the transformation made audible.

Ex
3.2

The Why Practice — Writing Your Purpose

Hill found that desires connected to others burn longer and more intensely than desires connected only to personal gain. Write the specific people who benefit from your success — and what their lives look like because of it.

WHO BENEFITS MOST

|                         |                                    |
|-------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Person / People: | What their life looks like: |
| <hr/>                   | <hr/>                              |

|                         |                                    |
|-------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Person / People: | What their life looks like: |
| <hr/>                   | <hr/>                              |

MY WHY — IN ONE SENTENCE

Distill the entire purpose beneath your goal into one sentence. This is the sentence you speak in the midday Why Practice when desire needs to be reconnected to its root.

|                             |
|-----------------------------|
| I am building this because: |
| <hr/>                       |

Feeling Is the Secret

The Inner Speech Audit · The Ladder of Believability

Complete this section after reading Module Four. The Inner Speech Audit surfaces the default inner programming that has been running without your awareness. The Ladder of Believability builds you an affirmation that your body can actually accept — which is the only kind that works.

Ex
4.1

The 24-Hour Inner Speech Audit

For one full day, pay deliberate attention to your inner speech without changing it. At the end of the day, return to this page and write down what you found. This is not a comfortable exercise. It is a necessary one.

WHAT MY INNER SPEECH SAID ABOUT MONEY AND SUCCESS

The most frequent inner statements I caught about money and success:

WHAT MY INNER SPEECH SAID WHEN I HIT AN OBSTACLE

What the inner voice said when something didn't go as planned:

WHAT MY INNER SPEECH SAID WHEN I SAW OTHERS SUCCEEDING

What I said to myself when I saw someone else achieve what I want:

THE PREDOMINANT INNER STATEMENT

Looking at what you wrote above — what is the single most frequent inner statement running as background assumption in your life right now? Write it exactly as it sounds.

My predominant inner statement — the one running most often:

Ex
4.2

The Ladder of Believability

Neville Goddard taught that an affirmation the body rejects creates conflict rather than impression. The subconscious responds to the feeling behind the words — not the words themselves. This exercise builds you an affirmation that the body can genuinely accept as currently true.

THE CURRENT AFFIRMATION — THE ONE THAT CREATES CONFLICT

Write the affirmation you have been trying to use, or the statement that represents your goal. The one that often feels hollow when you say it.

My current affirmation or goal statement as I have been saying it:

WHY THE BODY REJECTS IT

What does the body feel when you say that statement? Where does the conflict register? Be specific about the physical and emotional response.

What the body actually produces when I say that statement:

CLIMB THE LADDER — THREE RUNGS

Rewrite the statement three times, each version closer to what the body can genuinely accept as currently true. Move from outcome-level to identity-level to decision-level.

Rung 1 — Directionally true (the body can partially accept this):

Rung 2 — Identity-level (who I am becoming, not what I will have):

---

Rung 3 — Decision-level (what I have decided, which is immediately true):

MY BELIEVABLE STATEMENT — THE ONE I WILL USE

Which rung produces the most genuine felt certainty when you speak it — even a faint trace of the settled quality of something true? Write that statement here. This is your inner speech replacement.

The statement my body actually accepts as currently real:

YOUR INNER SPEECH REPLACEMENT PROTOCOL

Use this statement as your replacement whenever the inner speech intercept catches the old programming running. Catch it. Release it. Speak this. Let it settle 10 seconds in the body.

The same sentence. Every time. For at least 30 consecutive days. The subconscious responds to the pattern of a specific repeated impression — not to variety.

5

The Mirror and the Mouth

The Personal Declaration Builder

Complete this section after reading Module Five. The Declaration Builder guides you through constructing all four elements of your personal mirror declaration. Take at least 30 minutes on this exercise. This declaration will be spoken aloud to your own reflection every morning for 30 consecutive days. It must be yours — in your language, from your truth.

Ex
5.1

Building Your Declaration — Four Elements

Each element serves a specific neurological function. Work through them in order. The rough draft goes here. The final clean version goes in Exercise 5.2.

ELEMENT 1 — THE IDENTITY STATEMENT

Who are you? Not who you hope to become — who you have decided you are, stated as current fact. Specific enough to be meaningful. General enough that the body accepts it as already true.

IDENTITY STATEMENT — GUIDANCE

Not: 'I am a millionaire.' (too wide a gap — body rejects)

Not: 'I am trying to improve.' (too tentative — signals not-yet-having)

Yes: 'I am someone who creates and attracts significant value in everything I touch.'

Yes: 'I am a builder. I create things that serve people and generate wealth.'

The identity statement describes who you are — not what you have. Identity produces outcomes. Outcomes do not produce identity.

DRAFT — My identity statement ('I am...'):

ELEMENT 2 — THE PURPOSE STATEMENT

Why does this identity matter beyond your own gain? Who specifically benefits? What does your success make possible for the people you love or the people you serve?

DRAFT — My purpose statement ('I am building this because...'):

ELEMENT 3 — THE ACTION STATEMENT

What are you doing right now — today, in the real world — that belongs to this identity? Not what you will do. What you are doing. Present tense. The action of the person who has already decided.

DRAFT — My action statement ('Right now, I am...'):

ELEMENT 4 — THE ARRIVAL STATEMENT

How does it feel — in the body, in daily life — to already be this person? Not the excitement of having won. The quiet, settled, ordinary feeling of someone who has been living this for a while.

DRAFT — My arrival statement ('And I feel the certainty of this...'):

Ex
5.2

The Final Declaration — Clean Copy

Write your complete declaration here — all four elements combined into one continuous spoken statement. Write it exactly as you will speak it. In your voice. From your truth. Read it aloud once right now before you write it — to hear how it sounds before you commit it to the page.

My complete personal declaration — as I will speak it every morning:

THE MIRROR PRACTICE — YOUR DAILY PROTOCOL

Stand in front of your mirror. Feet planted. Spine aligned. Eyes on your own eyes.

Three slow breaths — not to relax, but to arrive.

Speak your declaration at full conversational volume. Declarative tone. Slower than ordinary speech. Two-second pause between each element.

Hold eye contact throughout. Do not look away. Whatever arises — speak through it.

After the final word: hold the gaze 10 seconds in silence.

Close quietly: 'I have spoken the truth about who I am.'

Every morning. Before the phone. Before the day. For 30 consecutive days.

Complete this section after reading Module Six. The Circle Audit surfaces the invisible influence your environment is currently having on your assumptions. The Mastermind Planner builds the deliberate alliance that multiplies everything you have built in Modules One through Five.

Ex
6.1

The Five-Circle Audit

Map each of your five circles honestly. Then apply the three-question audit to the most influential members of each circle. This is not a judgment exercise — it is a diagnostic one.

CIRCLE 1 — THE INNER CIRCLE (DAILY CONTACT)

Spouse, partner, close family, housemates. The people whose voices you hear most often.

| Person / Source                          | Builder / Neutral / Eroding:             |
|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
|  |  |

CIRCLE 2 — THE WORK CIRCLE

Colleagues, managers, clients. The people who constitute the majority of your waking hours.

| Person / Source                          | Builder / Neutral / Eroding:             |
|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
|  |  |

CIRCLE 3 — THE SOCIAL CIRCLE

The friends you spend leisure time with. The most revealing circle — because it is the most voluntary.

| Person / Source                          | Builder / Neutral / Eroding:             |
|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
|  |  |

|       |       |
|-------|-------|
| <hr/> | <hr/> |
|-------|-------|

CIRCLE 4 — THE DIGITAL CIRCLE

Social media follows, podcasts, YouTube channels, news sources. As influential as physical circles — and far less frequently audited.

| Source / Platform / Account | Builder / Neutral / Eroding: |
|-----------------------------|------------------------------|
| <hr/>                       | <hr/>                        |

CIRCLE 5 — THE ASPIRATIONAL CIRCLE

Books, teachers, mentors, courses. The most deliberately cultivated circle. Often the smallest — and the most reliably influential.

| Teacher / Book / Source | Builder / Neutral / Eroding: |
|-------------------------|------------------------------|
| <hr/>                   | <hr/>                        |

THE THREE-QUESTION AUDIT — APPLY TO YOUR MOST INFLUENTIAL INFLUENCES

For the most significant people and sources in your circles, answer these three questions:

|                                                                                                                |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Question 1: After time with this person or source, is my body more open or more closed in relation to my goal? |
| <hr/>                                                                                                          |

|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Question 2: What does this person or source implicitly assume is possible for someone like me? |
| <hr/>                                                                                          |

Question 3: Is their assumption aligned with or contrary to the assumption I am building in this course?

The Mastermind Planner — Three Layers

Napoleon Hill wrote: 'No mind is complete by itself. It needs contact and association with other minds to grow and expand.' Build your three-layer Mastermind here — starting from wherever you are right now.

LAYER ONE — THE LIVING MASTERMIND

One to three people in your actual life who meet at least three of the five Mastermind qualities. They believe in your goal specifically. They bring complementary capability. They are honest, not merely encouraging.

Layer One — Living Mastermind members and how we will connect:

LAYER TWO — THE ASPIRATIONAL MASTERMIND

Three to five people whose work you will engage with deeply and consistently. Books, courses, lectures — active study, not passive consumption. Minimum 30 minutes per week of genuine engagement.

Layer Two — My aspirational Mastermind members and their primary works:

LAYER THREE — THE COMMUNITY MASTERMIND

A deliberate community building in the same direction. A course cohort, a professional community, an online group with specific shared purpose. Name it and commit to one touchpoint per week.

Layer Three — My community Mastermind and weekly touchpoint plan:

MY MASTERMIND COMMITMENT

I COMMIT TO:

- ☐ Living Mastermind contact — weekly, genuine engagement with shared purpose
- ☐ Aspirational Mastermind — 30 minutes minimum, active study, weekly
- ☐ Community Mastermind — one meaningful touchpoint per week
- ☐ Circle Audit — revisit monthly for 90 days

90-Day Mastermind Tracker

Monthly check-ins for your circle audit and Mastermind practice

Napoleon Hill found that the Mastermind principle requires time and consistency to develop its full power. This tracker keeps the practice alive across three months — the minimum period in which a genuine alliance begins to produce the third-mind effect Hill described.

Complete the monthly check-in at the end of each 30-day period. Be honest. The audit is not for judgment — it is for progressive refinement of the environment that holds your transformation.

WHAT I STARTED WITH

Return to your Soil Audit in Module One. Read what you wrote. Then write here: what was the actual condition of the soil on Day One?

The honest condition of my inner ground on Day One:

WHAT SHIFTED

What is genuinely different — in how you feel about yourself, in what you assume is possible for you, in how you respond to setbacks, in the quality of your daily inner experience?

What has genuinely and measurably shifted in me over these 30 days:

THE GIFT THAT UNLOCKED MOST

Of the six modules — the soil, the assumption, the desire, the feeling, the declaration, the environment — which one produced the most visible shift in you? What did it unlock?

The module that moved me most and what it unlocked:

THE PRACTICE THAT CHANGED ME FASTEST

Of all the daily practices — the morning protocol, the SATS practice, the mirror declaration, the inner speech intercept, the Embodiment Practice — which one produced the most rapid and noticeable internal shift?

The practice that changed me fastest and what the change felt like:

THE EVIDENCE IN MY OUTER WORLD

What has begun to change in your outer circumstances — in relationships, in opportunities, in how people respond to you, in what appears in your life — that corresponds to the inner shift you have made?

The outer evidence of the inner transformation:

MY COMMITMENT FOR THE NEXT 30 DAYS

The soil is prepared. The seed is planted. The assumption is installed. The flame is burning. The declaration is spoken. The environment is designed. What are you building now?

What I am building in the next 30 days:

The soil is prepared.

*The seed is planted.
The assumption is watered. The flame is burning.
The declaration has been spoken. The environment is designed.*

Now go build.
